

A photograph of two young girls playing in a grassy field. The girl on the left is wearing a yellow long-sleeved shirt with 'go NDA' and a heart on it, and dark pants. The girl on the right is wearing a red shirt and denim overalls. They are both smiling and appear to be holding hands or playing a game. In the background, there are trees and a wooden structure.

The Museum of Appalachia’s School Tour Assistance Program

The Museum of Appalachia preserves the physical artifacts of our pioneer past; but our primary mission is to instill a greater knowledge of and appreciation for the Appalachian heritage, especially in future generations.

In today’s troubled economy, many schools are cutting “extras” like field trips, arts education, and regional history classes.

“Pioneer Partnership” is a donor-funded program providing half the admission cost for student groups of 30 or more from Title I schools to visit the Museum
and learn about regional history, music, and culture.
